SUPPLEMENT

1. On 14 August 1947 there were eight warships in East Harbor, Port Arthur. The ships were small, and dark gray and moved at high rates of speed (destroyers?). On 20 August one of these ships sank during one of the frequent maneuvers outside the harbor. The positions of the ships as of 14 August are shown in the sketch below:

2. There are no more than 1,000 Soviet naval personnel in Port Arthur. (See paragraph 4.)

Source for paragraphs 3-4: Chinese, graduate of Japanese university

3. On 31 August there were in the harbor of Port Arthur six ships (?) and five cruisers. There were also two submarines.
4. There are 1,000 Soviet naval personnel in Port Arthur; they are apparently idle.
